Dear Hiring Team,

I am a mental health professional specializing in clinical and counseling practice, with hands-on experience in therapy for psychological disorders (especially substance use disorder and trauma), module development, and psychometric assessment. I am writing to express my interest in the position of Addiction Therapist at your organization, as your mission closely aligns with my dedication to evidence-based addiction treatment, relapse prevention, and empowering individuals to rebuild healthy, meaningful lives. I would love the opportunity to work with your team. Please find my résumé attached with this document.

My previous role was with the 2014 Nobel Peace Prize Laureate, Mr. Kailash Satyarthi, at a trauma rehabilitation centre supporting adolescents and young adults with history of trauma and substance use. I also provided psychological support for depression, anxiety, stress, sleep issues, and low self-esteem. My practice focuses not only on managing mental illness but also maximizing mental wellness, resilience, and personal growth. My experience has involved both marginalized and non-marginalized clients across diverse age groups, cultures, genders and socioeconomic status. I also bring my skills as a former theatre artist into my work with clients, enthusiastically psycho-educating, teaching, and engaging them. I take pride in my ability to build strong rapport with the target population that you work with.

For the past two years, I have dedicated myself to preparing for the M.Phil. in Clinical Psychology entrance exams, deepening my knowledge of clinical concepts, staying updated with recent research, and strengthening my analytical skills. I am now eager to apply this preparation in a structured professional role.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how I can contribute in supporting your organization. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Chetna
